

Fact File

My guidance for attempting to break the world record for the Fastest time to halve 10 matches with an axe

If you really, really feel compelled to claim this world record title, I suggest you get yourself a solid chopping surface first. Then find an axe that sits comfortably in your hand. Caress it, swing it into the chopping block, and do other things which generally help you make friends with it. Once you are sure that you have a safe plan – and I mean truly safe, then throw your other responsibilities away for a day and devote it to halving matches.

To start, gear up for a few rules, such as:

- halve the matches one by one.
- have a timekeeper present.

There's a sense of reward to be had from using an axe to chop matches in half. It brings great pleasure, but you'd only discover the true sensation in all its fullness if you tried this world record yourself. Just remember to be careful with that axehead, and don't be shy about dealing to those matches with precision.

Still keen? WorldRecordChase.com is happy to mentor others wishing to attempt this world record, at reasonable rates.

Enjoy.

Please note: neither Alastair Galpin nor WorldRecordChase.com will be responsible for any actions whatsoever undertaken by any person as a result of visiting this website. If you intend to attempt to emulate any of Alastair's world record attempts, always seek expert advice.